What Future for Luxembourg Banking Secrecy?

While Luxembourg cooperates fully with foreign tax authorities on specific requests by applying OECD standards, the proposed revision of the EU Savings Directive could require from Luxembourg the automatic exchange of information and the end of the withholding tax regime.

How will Luxembourg position itself in EU and international negotiations to balance the cross-border cooperation in fighting fraudulent activities and the right of individuals to privacy?

Under international pressure, is there a future for what remains of bank secrecy in Luxembourg?
